

A juggler dances beautifully as if he is made of water. A trapezist looking like a depraved caveman performs several macho aerial feats. I was just beginning to relax when the aforementioned trapezist approached me, grabbed my hair, pulled my head up, and planted a bristly kiss on my lips. It's a novel way of trying to please a critic.