CLEAN UP YOUR ACT!

CIRCUS ARCHAOS...facing ban

City's warning to raunchy circus

A SEXY French circus has been told: "Clean up your act or get out of town."

For Glasgow councillors are concerned that it may not be suitable for families.

Circus Archaos, which is due to open a two-week run at Glasgow Green on Saturday, is facing an 11th-hour ban because their show is considered too raunchy.

And councillors have ordered a special private show to determine whether the act needs to be censored or banned altogether.

The controversial troupe, which has stunned audiences all over Britain with its over-the-Top show, features:

- Nearly-naked men KISSING in the ring.
- A girl performer who STRIPS to the waist.
- Sizzling scenes of SIMULATED SEX.
- Roaring motorbikes, buzzing chainsaws and EXPLODING cars.

Members of Glasgow District Council's licensing committee have already received dozens of letters of complaint about the show.

UNHAPPY

Publicity about male performers in G-strings simulating homosexual acts during the show has fuelled councillors' fears.

Acting licensing chairman, Councillor John Moynes, said many of his colleagues were unhappy about reports of the circus's male performances and about female participants baring their breasts.

He said: "We are well aware that there will be families taking their children along to see the action and we felt that it wouldn't be a family show."

"We have asked the organisers to provide a full private showing on Friday or Saturday, not just certain acts, to see if it
